Dear Lonnie,

Al Cunniff said he phoned the paper and was told you are in hodpitsl.

This is to hope you are home and are OK and to tell you what about now you should be able to expect, farthur north as you are from here.

We had heaps of snow left over from The Storm of the Century.

Then, suddenly, it got warm and the snow melted.

And there were the jonquils, as much a a foot of more up and the most advanced already in bud.

So I took a better look and all of a sudden everything is green.

To remind me that this is the season that in nature this is the time that all starts coming of life "our" mallards are back - a pair that nest here yearly.

The young deer are no longer escorted. Mom's and pop's have something else in mind.

So, it is also time for the likes of you and me to feel good.

Do it, friend!

Hal
